

International Relations, BS

LAINRBS

Do you want to change the world for the better? Learn about security, intelligence, diplomacy and international trade, law, and institutions from faculty experts and policy practitioners. Develop analytic and quantitative skills to provide data-driven solutions to global challenges and enact meaningful change in the public, nonprofit and private sectors.

Program description

In a globalized world with increasing political, economic, demographic and climatic challenges, studies in international relations are all the more prized by the public and private sectors.

Students in the BS program in international relations develop analytic and quantitative skill sets and mastery of forward-thinking content areas through rigorous curriculum, unique internships and research. Students gain valuable practical knowledge about national security, cybersecurity, AI-intelligence strategies, conflict processes, diplomacy, international trade, and both international organizations and countries across the globe.
