Jewish Studies, BA

Explore Jewish life and history by examining topics like religious and spiritual values and political and philosophical viewpoints. Study the history and modern life of the Jewish religion while developing an understanding of Jewish contributions to Western civilization.

Program Description

The BA in Jewish studies offers a transdisciplinary, cross-cultural program of study focusing on the study of Judaism, defined as the civilization of the Jews. It considers Jewish history and modern life and facilitates enhanced cultural awareness and a global perspective.

As with other degree programs in the humanities, a bachelor's degree program in Jewish studies can provide a balance to studies in contemporary science and technology.

Students choose a thematic concentration from history and society, literature and culture, or religion and thought.

In addition to the guidelines in the Concurrent Program Options section below, students interested in pursuing a concurrent degree or second baccalaureate in The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences are advised to visit The College's website for more information and requirements.

Global Opportunities

Global Experience
Judaism spans back to ancient times, and people of this heritage can be found all over the world. Study abroad programs can help students connect the past to the present by immersing them in places that hold much significance for Jewish peoples, whether in Israel or elsewhere in the diaspora, through one of the more than 250 study abroad programs available. https://goglobal.asu.edu/

The College of Liberal Arts and Sciences recommends the following study abroad programs for students majoring in Jewish studies: https://goglobal.asu.edu/students-major/shprs/jewish-studies.

Career Opportunities

Students who receive a bachelor's degree in Jewish studies and pursue a career with one of the hundreds of U.S. companies that do business in Israel have a competitive edge because of their familiarity with Jewish culture. Jewish studies graduates are also prepared to:
• attend rabbinical seminary in preparation for becoming a community rabbi or chaplain
• engage in world political and economic issues
• pursue advanced education in Jewish professional service fields

The degree also provides a firm foundation for students who wish to pursue advanced degrees related to their area of interest in fields that may include:

• archaeology
• creative writing
• ethics
• film and media
• history
• journalism
• justice studies
• law
• philosophy
• political science
• religious studies

Career examples include but are not limited to those shown in the following list. Advanced degrees or certifications may be required for academic or clinical positions.
