Program Description

The BAE in secondary education with a concentration in history prepares students to educate learners in grades 6-12. Aligned with strong content knowledge of history, this program also focuses on integrating technology into teaching and provides the professional experience needed to develop teaching skills that lead to success in the classroom.

Extensive professional experiences are built into this program to prepare students to enter the teaching profession after graduation. Graduates will complete internships prior to a full-time teaching residency. Mary Lou Fulton Teachers College has developed a distinctive approach to teacher-preparation, which includes student participation in internships and residencies while receiving guidance and support from faculty members and highly qualified certified teachers. Professional experiences are designed to prepare graduates to work with mutually supportive colleagues to address the academic and social-emotional needs of learners.

Graduates from this program earn a bachelor's degree in their content area and will receive an institutional recommendation from ASU that is recognized by the Arizona Department of Education for teacher certification in Secondary Education, 6-12. To be eligible for secondary certification in Arizona, students must also earn a passing score on the professional knowledge exam offered through the National Evaluation Series or Arizona Educator Proficiency Assessments.

Global Opportunities
Global Experience
Teaching through experience can be a vital tool. Study abroad inspires a global perspective and an increased appreciation for the history, philosophy and religion of different cultures that's learned firsthand where history took place. Future teachers are able to remove themselves from text and experience research at primary source sites. In addition, the experience and understandings gained across borders can aid in a competitive job search. https://goglobal.asu.edu/
