Global Security and Competitive Statecraft (Graduate Certificate)

You can deeply understand the issues that shape the complex contemporary global political environment through firsthand experience and the academic rigor of challenging, interesting and relevant coursework on contemporary issues, taught by world-class faculty from across the spectrum of security-related and foreign policy fields.

Program Description

Degree Awarded: Certificate Global Security and Competitive Statecraft (Certificate)
The certificate in global security and competitive statecraft is an interdisciplinary program designed to aid professional advancement in government, military, nonprofit and private sector careers. Students are trained to critically engage contemporary international security issues in a comprehensive manner.

The program is based on four key pillars: enabling innovative strategic thinking, developing analytic tools, supporting critical interdisciplinary engagement, and encouraging flexible and resilient approaches to the inherently complex challenges of current and future global security.

Program faculty have extensive experience as practitioners in the field of security and foreign policy. They bring their deep understanding of the issues to rigorous and interesting coursework that allows students to develop a sophisticated understanding of the complex global, political environment in which political actors compete.

Students may pursue the certificate from anywhere in the world, study while working full-time or part-time, and they may advance at their own pace.
