Program description

Degree awarded: MS Community Resources and Development (Parks and Recreation Management)

The MS in community resources and development with a concentration in parks and recreation management is a research-oriented master's degree program.

Students learn to analyze and understand critical topics and issues pertinent to the fields of tourism, parks and recreation management, nonprofits and nongovernmental organizations, and sustainable communities. Aided by the commitment of faculty mentors, students learn how to approach and solve problems through the lens of community solution analysis: considering all regulatory, policy and relationship factors to make informed decisions.

On average, completion of the master's degree program requires two years of study.
