Program description

Degree awarded: MA Emergency Management and Homeland Security (Community Resilience)

Community resilience refers to the efforts of government and nongovernment actors to develop policies and practices aimed at reducing short- and long-term hazard risks in order to enhance safety, sustainability and resiliency through adaptive capacities.

This concentration within the MA program in emergency management and homeland security is focused on understanding how community resilience is developed and promoted in coordination with government agencies (local, state and federal) as well as private and nonprofit sector organizations in which functional and operational responsibilities relate to planning, hazards mitigation, disaster recovery or sustainability. Furthermore, this program leverages international partners in Australia and the United Kingdom through the PLuS Alliance for additional course offerings.
