Public Safety Leadership and Administration (Executive Fire Administration), MPSLA

Prepare yourself to navigate fire and emergency services as a manager to reduce risk and preserve the safety of the communities fire services divisions protect. You can learn the function and impact of budgeting and finance, emergency services operations analysis, fire services innovation, and public policy in this program.

Program Description

Degree Awarded: MPSLA Public Safety Leadership and Administration (Executive Fire Administration)
The MPSLA is a graduate degree program designed primarily for public safety professionals. An advanced degree is an important key to career progression within public safety administration. Those with an advanced degree have an advantage that makes a difference as they seek to advance in their professions --- a practical understanding of public safety organization administration.

This graduate program, through its accomplished faculty and intricately connected curriculum, endeavors to advance student leadership, policy and administrative acumen.

The executive fire administration concentration program prepares graduates to handle the challenges facing chief officers. With coursework in strategic planning, public policy and administration, leadership and organizational management, data analysis, finance and technology, students develop a platform of knowledge and skills to build a solid foundation for success within the field of executive fire administration.
