We are not currently accepting applications for the Intensive Support Needs - Moderate/Severe Alternative and Traditional Certification Pathways.

With accessible formats, personalized support and a commitment to transformative education, it's no wonder our graduate programs are highly ranked. No matter where you're located, you can earn your master's degree and be ready to educate learners in grades K-12 and support greater equity in special education.

Program Description

Degree Awarded: MEd Special Education (Teacher Certification)
The MEd program in special education with a concentration in teacher certification is for those who already have a bachelor's degree in any field and want to become licensed to teach special education or who want to pursue dual-certification in special education and elementary education. The program builds on connections between educational design and decision-making and is designed to foster strong professional growth and leadership development.

All courses are offered remotely; students select one of two modalities:

- ASU Sync offers regularly scheduled evening classes via synchronous learning over Zoom. Instructors and students are not in the same physical space but do meet at the same time, offering a live learning experience with peers and faculty. ASU Sync students need to reside in Arizona throughout the duration of the program. Students on I-20 visas are not permitted to complete courses via Sync and should speak with an advisor about other options to complete this program.
- ASU Online offers classes via asynchronous instruction. Instructors and students are not in the same physical space and do not meet at the same time, allowing students to complete coursework on their own schedules.
This program can be taken in three continuous semesters allowing students to complete the program in one year. Students can also enroll part-time over additional semesters.

Professional experiences assist students in developing a thorough understanding of teaching and learning as they apply knowledge from their coursework in varied school settings. Individualized guidance through the clinical framework provides students with the support they need to become effective educators.

Two routes are offered leading to Arizona teacher certification:

- Traditional certification route: students can pursue dual-certification in special education for mild/moderate levels, and elementary education or special education for moderate/severe levels. Students complete an internship each semester during the first two semesters. They also complete two 8-week teaching residencies, including one in a special education setting and one in an elementary school setting.

  Graduates earn an institutional recommendation from ASU that is recognized by the Arizona Department of Education for teacher certification in Mild/Moderate Disabilities, K-12; and Elementary Education, K-8 or Moderate/Severe Disabilities, K-12.

- Alternative certification route: provides a pathway to teacher certification for individuals who are currently employed full-time by a school as a teacher of record. To qualify, individuals must secure a full-time teaching position in an approved content and grade level. This route leads to single certification in special education for mild/moderate disabilities or for moderate/severe levels; students are not able to pursue dual certification.

  Graduates earn an institutional recommendation from ASU that is recognized by ADE for teacher certification in Mild/Moderate Disabilities, K-12, or Moderate/Severe Disabilities, K-12.

Coursework is similar in both certification routes and culminates in an applied action research project in which students apply what they've learned to address a challenge in their classroom.

Additional Curriculum Information
For the teacher certification concentration requirements, students complete six or eight credit hours from Internship and Student Teaching. For traditional and alternative certification in special education, at least two credit hours must be SPE internship, and at least two credit hours must be SPE student teaching for one certification.

Students seeking dual certification in elementary and special education must complete both an EED and SPE student teaching placement, which extends the teaching certification requirement by two for a total of eight credit hours. Students switching from Alternative Certification may substitute Apprentice Teaching for Student Teaching with permission from the program.

Students wanting to switch certification option mid-program should reach out to the academic unit for appropriate advisement.

ELL 515 is substitutable with advisor approval.

Tuition Information

When it comes to paying for college, everyone's situation is different. Students can learn about ASU tuition and financial aid options to find out which will work best for them.

Attend Online

ASU Online

ASU offers this program in an online format with multiple enrollment sessions throughout the year. Applicants may view the program's ASU Online page for program descriptions and to request more information.

Career Opportunities

Graduates of Mary Lou Fulton Teachers College are highly sought-out teachers in public, charter and private education institutions. Students gain skills in teaching, conducting research, utilizing technology and collaborating in teams --- all of which prepares them to successfully work with diverse learners in grades K--12.

Professional Licensure

ASU programs that may lead to professional licensure or certification are intended to prepare students for potential licensure or certification in Arizona. Completion of an ASU program may not meet educational requirements for licensure or certification in another state. For more information, students should visit the ASU professional licensure webpage.

In order to teach in an Arizona public school, graduates must pass the appropriate Arizona educator subject knowledge exam, as well as the professional knowledge exam offered through the National Evaluation Series or Arizona Educator Proficiency Assessments.
