

Recreation Management, Minor

PPRECMIN

Enhance your major with a deeper knowledge of community recreation. With an understanding of how leisure, sports and recreation enhance quality of life, you will have the ability to create and manage meaningful recreation experiences.

Description

The minor program in recreation management introduces students to community recreation programming and planning for a variety of populations.

The minor allows students enrolled in other undergraduate programs at ASU to broaden their educational experiences. Students from such various disciplines as social work, criminology and criminal justice, public affairs, kinesiology, psychology, sociology, education, nursing and many others might find this minor a beneficial supplement to their existing program.
